

University
of Glasgow

MCHE

MANCHESTER CENTRE
FOR HEALTH ECONOMICS

CHIEF
SCIENTIST
OFFICE

MRC

Medical Research
Council

CENTENARY 1913-2013

Support for foreign private hospitals

Presented at the Conference on 'Popular Attitudes in China:
Health Care Provision and Beyond'

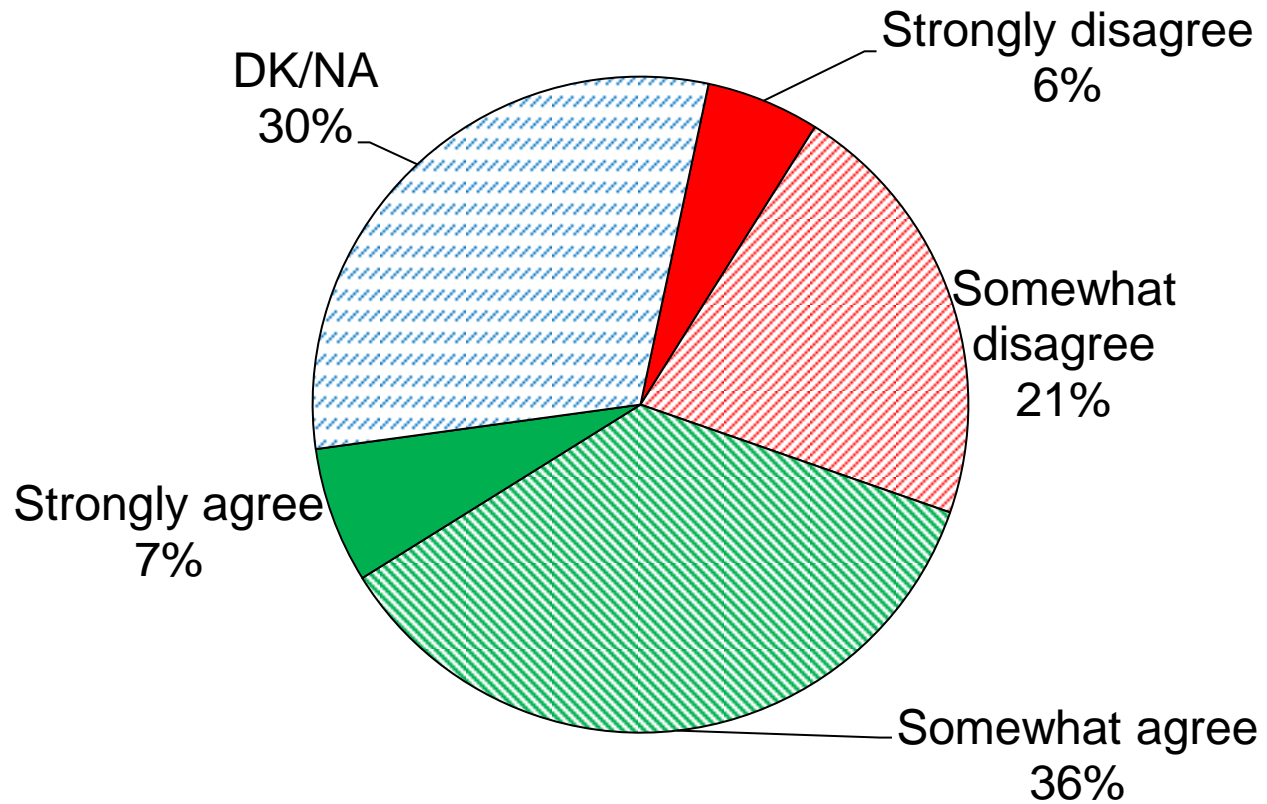

3 February, 2015, British Academy, London

Findings from the research project 'Performance Evaluations, Trust and the Utilisation of Health Care in China', funded by the Economic and Social Research Council, Grant No. ES/J011487/1. For more information, see <http://www.gla.ac.uk/petu>.

Support for foreign private hospitals

Q. 'Foreign companies should be allowed to open private hospitals in China to compete with state hospitals'

Support for foreign private hospitals by age

Foreign companies should be allowed to open private hospitals

Support for foreign private hospitals by type of insurance

Foreign companies should be allowed to open private hospitals

Support for foreign private hospitals by income quintile

Foreign companies should be allowed to open private hospitals

Support for foreign private hospitals by ability to pay medical bills

Foreign companies should be allowed to open private hospitals

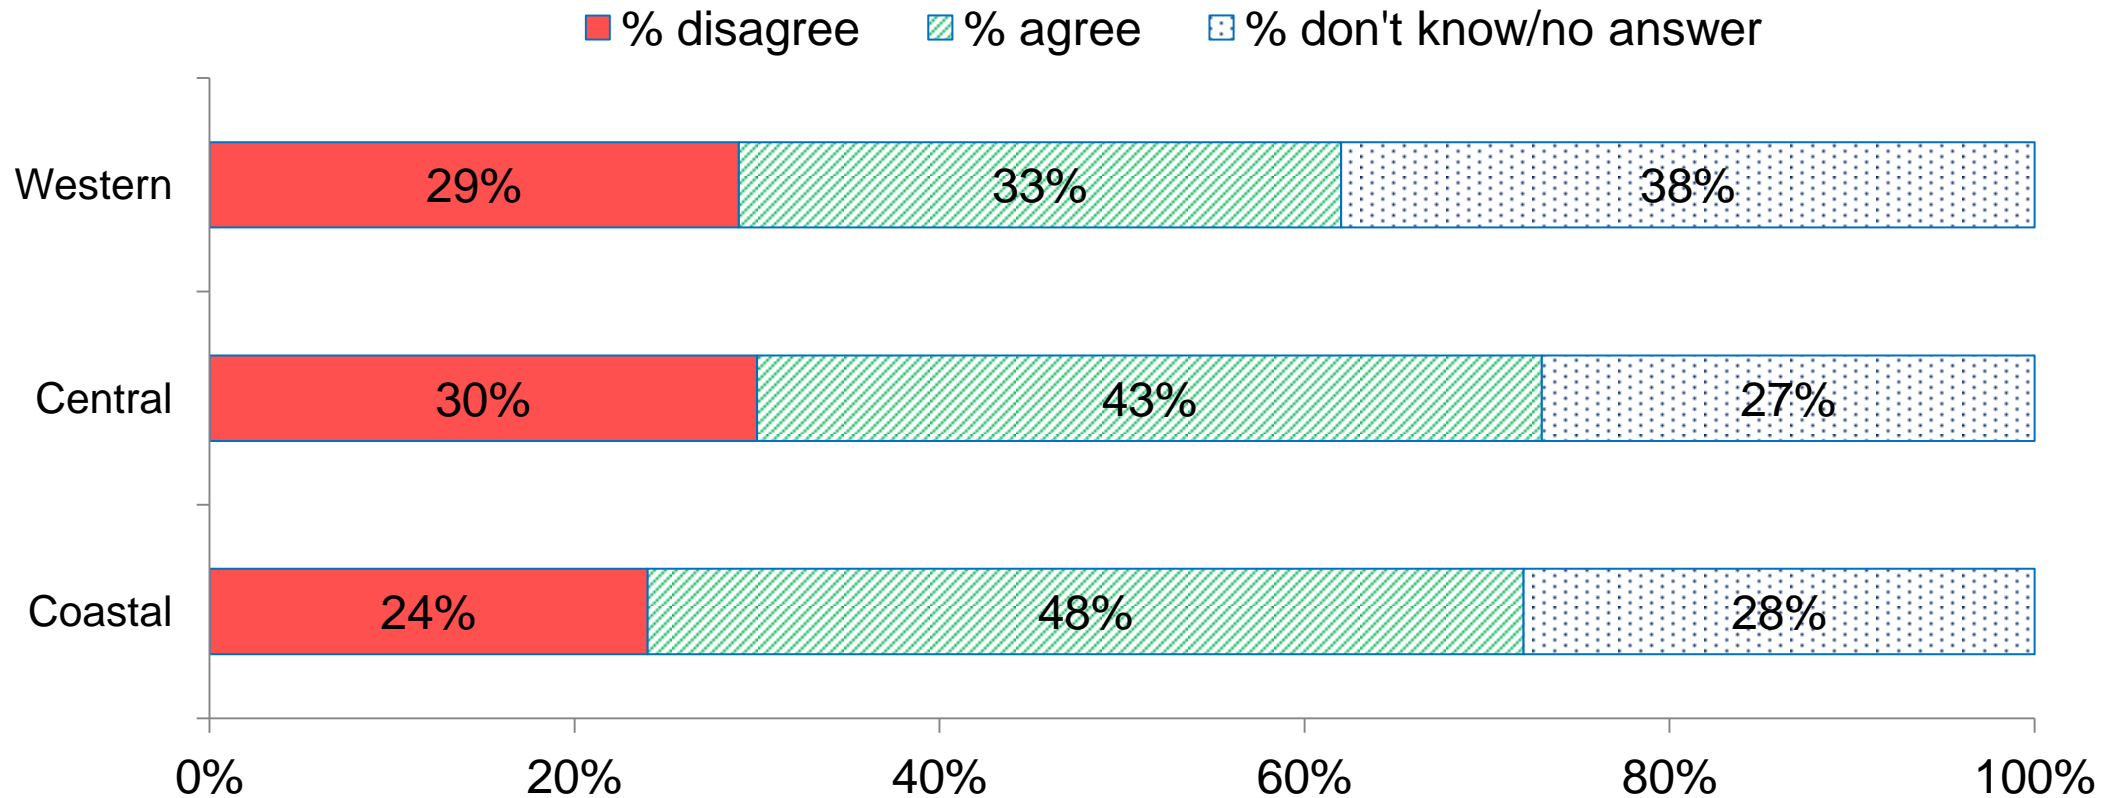

Support for foreign private hospitals by hukou type

Foreign companies should be allowed to open private hospitals

Support for foreign private hospitals by region

Foreign companies should be allowed to open private hospitals

Support for foreign private hospitals by occupation

Foreign companies should be allowed to open private hospitals

Support for foreign private hospitals by perceived inequality in access to care

Foreign companies should be allowed to open private hospitals

Support for foreign private hospitals by acceptability of inequality in access to care

Foreign companies should be allowed to open private hospitals

University
of Glasgow

MCHE

MANCHESTER CENTRE
FOR HEALTH ECONOMICS

CHIEF
SCIENTIST
OFFICE

MRC
Medical Research
Council
CENTENARY 1913-2013

Support for foreign health insurance

Presented at the Conference on 'Popular Attitudes in China:
Health Care Provision and Beyond'

3 February, 2015, British Academy, London

Findings from the research project 'Performance Evaluations, Trust and the Utilisation of Health Care in China', funded by the Economic and Social Research Council, Grant No. ES/J011487/1. For more information, see <http://www.gla.ac.uk/petu>.

Support for open health insurance markets

Q. 'We should not allow foreign companies to enter our health insurance market'

Support for open health insurance markets by whether or not respondent has insurance

Foreign companies should be allowed to enter our health insurance market

Support for open health insurance markets by type of insurance

Foreign companies should be allowed to enter our health insurance market

Support for open health insurance markets by income

Foreign companies should be allowed to enter our health insurance market

Support for open health insurance markets by ability to pay medical bills

Foreign companies should be allowed to enter our health insurance market

Support for open health insurance markets by hukou type

Foreign companies should be allowed to enter our health insurance market

Support for open health insurance markets by region

Foreign companies should be allowed to enter our health insurance market

Support for open health insurance markets by occupation

Foreign companies should be allowed to enter our health insurance market

Support for open health insurance markets by perceived inequality in access to care

Foreign companies should be allowed to enter our health insurance market

University
of Glasgow

MCHE

MANCHESTER CENTRE
FOR HEALTH ECONOMICS

CHIEF
SCIENTIST
OFFICE

Perceived reliability of foreign health insurance

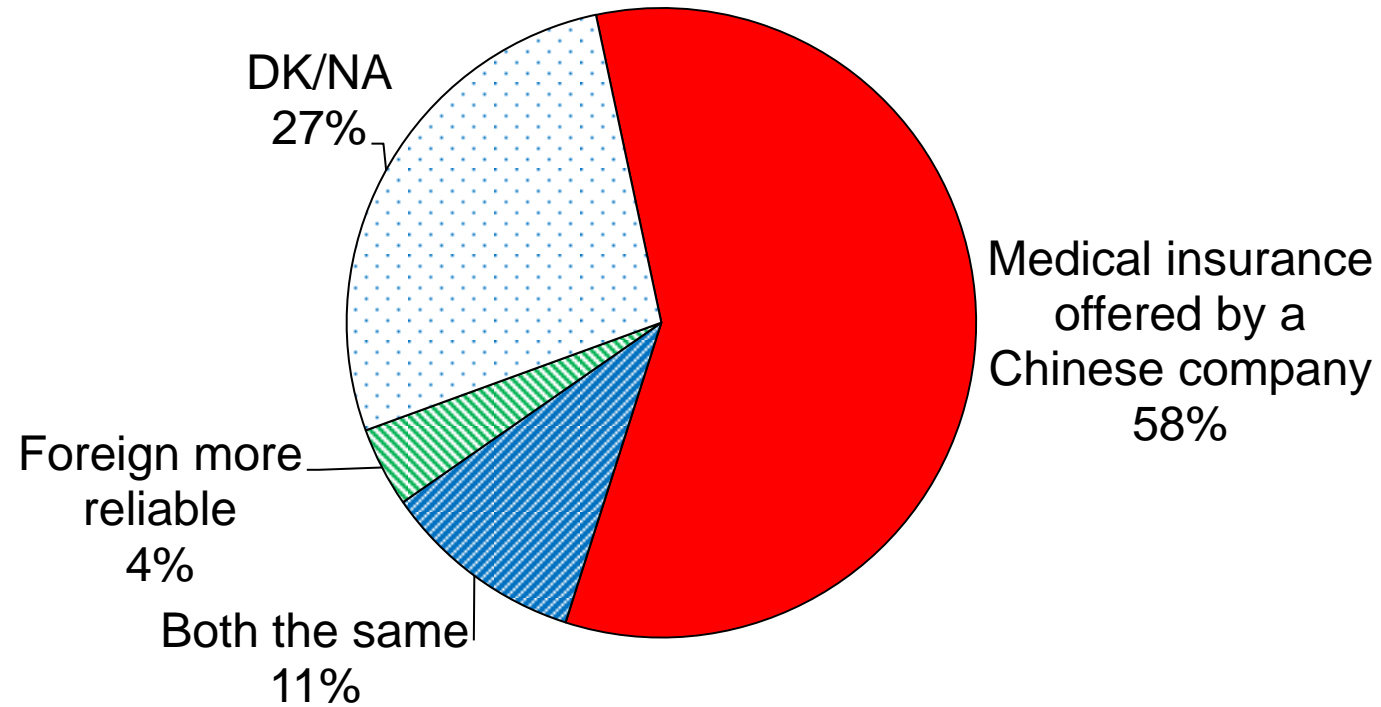

Presented at the Conference on 'Popular Attitudes in China:
Health Care Provision and Beyond'

3 February, 2015, British Academy, London

Findings from the research project 'Performance Evaluations, Trust and the Utilisation of Health Care in China', funded by the Economic and Social Research Council, Grant No. ES/J011487/1. For more information, see <http://www.gla.ac.uk/petu>.

Perceived reliability of Chinese or foreign insurance

Q. Which do you think is more reliable? insurance offered by a Chinese insurance company, or a foreign company?

Reliability of foreign insurance by age

Foreign insurance is as reliable

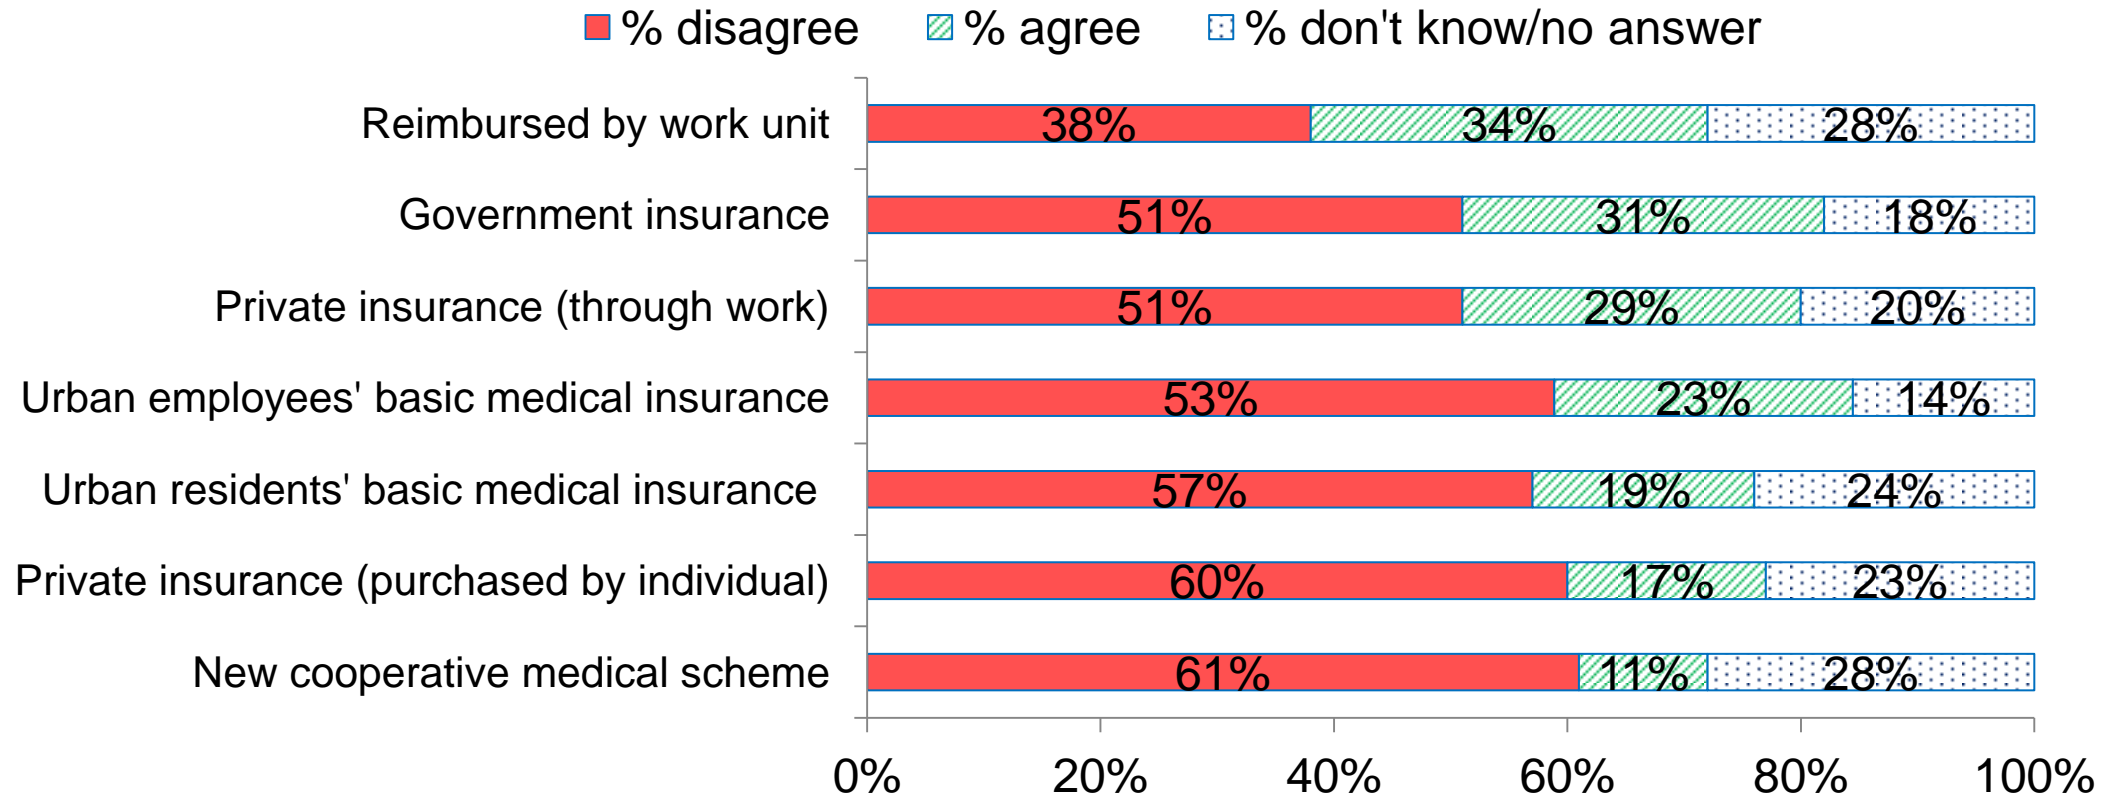

Reliability of foreign insurance by whether or not insured

Foreign insurance is as reliable

Reliability of foreign insurance by insurance type

Foreign insurance is as reliable

Reliability of foreign insurance by income

Foreign insurance is as reliable

Reliability of foreign insurance by ability to pay medical bills

Foreign insurance is as reliable

Reliability of foreign insurance by residence

Foreign insurance is as reliable

Reliability of foreign insurance by hukou type

Foreign insurance is as reliable

Reliability of foreign insurance by region

Foreign insurance is as reliable

Reliability of foreign insurance by occupation

Foreign insurance is as reliable

Reliability of foreign insurance by type of employer

Foreign insurance is as reliable

Reliability of foreign insurance by perceived inequality

Foreign insurance is as reliable

